No matter your stage in the research career, there is a European or Spanish national funding opportunity awaiting you. This session is designed to guide you through a broad array of options aimed at advancing your career.

- For young Postdocs: Engage with the Marie Skłodowska-Curie Actions Postdoctoral Fellowships (MSCA-PF), which present an invaluable opportunity for postdocs to embark on a two-year journey at a European university or research center. This program is a stepping stone to international recognition and building a strong research network.
- For leading researchers: Uncover the ways European Research Council (ERC) Grants foster pioneering research projects. Targeting researchers at various career stages, emerging (2 to 7 years post-PhD), established (8 to 12 years post-PhD), or internationally acclaimed (evaluating the past 10 years of work), with innovative project ideas. These grants are designed for visionaries eager to push the limits and pioneer novel discoveries during a 5-year project at an European Host Institution. Additionally, the option to develop an ERC project in a consortium will be presented, allowing you to possibly spearhead your project from Brazil.
- For talent aiming to flourish or return to Spain: Additionally, we will highlight Spanish funding initiatives aimed at attracting research talent. Whether you are seeking access to resources, opportunities for collaboration, or a nurturing academic setting, Galicia (Spain) offers a dynamic environment that fosters the enhancement of your research projects.

Presented by the University of Coruña in collaboration with ACEBRA and PPGAP-UFRJ, this session is designed to present financing opportunities and international mobility experiences that will support the continuation of your research career or facilitate your return to Spain.

Don't miss out on this chance to discover the pathways that can lead to the next chapter in your research career. Bilateral meetings can also be arranged to explore your specific needs and interests.
